To Seek Congressional Action to Prevent Deporting Red Envoy

MARTENS UNDECIDED

Will Await Orders From Moscow Before Attempting to Fight U. S. Order

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Timothy Healy, representing the American Alliance for opening trade with Russia, announced this afternoon he will seek congressional action to prevent the deportation of L. C. A. K. Martens, representative of soviet Russia in the United States.

Healy stated that in the movement he represents will seek conferences with members of congress tomorrow.

Martens' Surrender As ed.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The department of labor this afternoon requested counsel for L. C. A. K. Martens to immediately get in touch with their client and surrender him for deportation, under Secretary Wilson's ruling. Officials were unable to say just when Martens would be deported, but stated that it would be in a comparatively short while.

Awaits Word From Moscow.
NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, the unrecognized Russian soviet ambassador, was cheerful though disappointed today over the decision of the United States department of labor to deport him.

day showed that the Daugherty attempt to pay off indebtedness to his dead friend was not sincere or genuine. Men really close to the president as well as many members of the national committee, have communicated with Senator-elect Harding their wish to be guided by him in the disposition of Oklahoma affairs, and the further wish that he might end the disgraceful squabble in Oklahoma.

It is stating a generally known fact to assert that the elevation of Mr. Ham to the republican national committee is one of the impossibilities of human existence. It couldn't be done even if the state democratic committee wished. The national committee is in possession of facts that justify it in having a very strong disinclination to be a party to such a game.

Harold for Harris.
Senator-elect Harold has let it be known within the last few days that he favors the selection of State Chairman Harris in the interest of party harmony and maintaining an organization in which the state has but recently expressed its confidence. He has also not hesitated to say, so friends assert, that he is prepared to consider every republican according to his real worth to the party but that he feels under no obligations to recognize any man simply because he was a friend of Jake Ham or a member of the Hamon guard.

It is also whispered in certain quarters that a well known and somewhat prominent republican will be present at the meeting of the state committee with a personal letter from President-elect Harding which will make the Daugherty telegram appear in its true light.

DAUGHERTY EXPRESSES APPREHENSION OF HAMON.
ARDMORE, Okla., Dec. 17.—Harry M. Daugherty, in a message to J. E. Dyer of Oklahoma City, who is managing the campaign started by the friends of the late Jake L. Hamon, to have the vacancy created by his death filled by his widow, expresses keenest appreciation for Mr. Hamon and his friends and assures Mr. Dyer that Mr. Hamon's friendship and assistance and that of friends in Oklahoma will never be forgotten.

Mr. Daugherty's telegram in full reads as follows:
"My friend, that great republican, the late Jake L. Hamon, was one of the most influential factors in the nomination and election of Senator Harding to the presidency. He and his friends in Oklahoma are entitled to and shall receive the greatest consideration while we are in politics. I know how highly Senator Harding esteemed him and how grateful he is for Mrs. Hamon's influence and assistance. Mr. Hamon never wavered in his loyalty and devotion to our cause. Not being able to speak for Senator Harding, but knowing him and his friends, I can confidently express the hope that no reflection on Mr. Hamon's republicanism or his friendship will receive any consideration on the part of us. Mr. Hamon's friendship and assistance and that of his friends in Oklahoma will never be forgotten."

Tulsa Banker Explains Why He Failed to Get His Deer

G. R. McCullough, president of the First National bank, returned Friday from a week's hunting expedition at Uvalde, Texas. A. E. Bradshaw and son James and W. H. Walker of Tulsa, accompanied McCullough. A small number of San Antonio business men were also in the hunting party. The sport was good, but the results not so satisfying, was the way McCullough expressed it at a bank dinner Friday.

According to McCullough's account of the trip, it was one of the finest he has had in his long career as a hunter. The party was hunting on a large ranch near Uvalde, a small town west of San Antonio, in a region where deer and large game abound. They were after big game, but owing to the fact that the section has been heavily hunted during the past few years, deer were scarce; none were bagged, but the party had a number of amusing experiences.

On one occasion, McCullough says, a Mexican guide took Bradshaw out to help him get a deer and after a long tramp they sighted one. Bradshaw shot and missed, the deer disappearing like a whirlwind. The guide was chattering to heat the "band" but Bradshaw couldn't understand the "ingo" and not until he rejoined the party and got an interpreter did he learn that his guide was trying to tell him, "there goes another one."

At another time Bradshaw asked the guide a question and for about fifteen minutes he jabbered at top speed. When the interpreter was brought into play he listened attentively and then informed Bradshaw that the guide said "no."

SOLDIERS ON WAY TO SCENE OF RIOT

when it was announced that the youth was shot accidentally.

Mayor Wadman declared late today "that a serious situation exists in the city. He expressed a desire to uphold the law and protect the citizens of Independence, in his proclamation.

The city presented the appearance of an armed camp. Throughout the day grim world war veterans clad in nondescript clothing and bearing rifles and shotguns were stationed on every street. The jail in which Green is held was overrun with armed civilian guards.

A steady stream of applicants for commissions as deputy sheriffs appeared to be sworn in. Numbers came from surrounding towns. A coroner's inquest, was held behind closed doors to investigate the rioting last night. The finding was not announced. The funeral of Wharton was held late in the day and this served to stir comment from white citizens who congregated on every street corner.

Negroes were seen here and there on the streets during the day, but they were not molested. Two negroes were arrested by the civilian guards and held for alleged incendiary remarks. Afternoon newspapers printed an appeal from the widow of Wharton to all citizens to abstain from mob violence and let the law take its course in dealing with the alleged slayer of her husband. The rioting last night broke up the city hall and the First Presbyterian church. Mayor Wadman, chief of police Hall had gone to meet a crowd of 20 negroes who approached the jail, as they announced, to protect Green from a threat of mob violence.

The city officials departed, believing the negroes were about to disband, according to Chief Hall. Then about eight of the negroes crossed the street where they encountered a group of white men.

It was an accidental shot fired by Arthur Hopper, a negro who was killed, that precipitated the shooting, according to the chief. Firing then became general on both sides. When the smoke cleared away two minutes later it was found that Lawrence Glennan, a white schoolboy, said to have been a bystander, was killed. The five wounded were rushed to hospitals.

A mob later gathered before the jail demanding Green, but dispersed when Mitchell told them he had not identified Green as the negro who killed Wharton.

Windows in a downtown negro club were shot out early this morning. The fire was returned from the club. It was reported no one was wounded.

To Free Newspaper Woman in Kidnap Case

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 17.—Miss Betty Brainerd, newspaper writer of New York and Seattle was to be released, it was indicated today, as soon as George T. Siag is produced to plead guilty to kidnapping his own son. Miss Brainerd has been held as an accomplice in kidnapping the child from its home here last September. She was arrested in New York and extradited after powerful friends of the young writer had failed to cause Stagg's wife to drop the charges.

The release of Miss Brainerd was arranged at a conference of the prosecuting attorney and attorneys for the young woman. Under the agreement, Stagg will plead guilty and accept a minimum sentence of 10 years in the penitentiary.
